FROM EUROPE.

NEW YORK, APRIL 20.

Yeſterday arrived here the ſhip Port Mary, Capt. Kennedy, in 35 days from Liverpool. By this veſſel the Editor has received London Papers to March Nine, from which the following articles are extracted:

SPAIN.

BARCELONA, JANUARY 18.

On the 14th a courier from Madrid embarked here for Genoa. We are aſſured he carries diſpatches of the utmoſt conſequence from our Monarch to the Emperor, relative to overtures for a general peace, as Great Britain is diſpoſed to accede to ſome conditions already propoſed.

GERMANY.

BORDERS OF THE MEIN, FEBRUARY 18.

According to a German paper, the Pruſſians and Heſſians have recently concluded with France upon a new line of demarkation, in caſe the war ſhall continue during this year. The ſaid line will extend from Weſtphalia along the frontiers of the country of Heſſe and Folde, and will be protected by a numerous body of Pruſſians and Heſſians.

Letters from Semlin ſtates, that the Turks are making ſerious diſpoſitions for war in Servia. All the frontier places are put in the beſt ſtate of defence; the garriſons have been conſiderably augmented, and proviſions and warlike ſtores are continually paſſing thither. A numerous corps of Turks is aſſembling in the environs of Widdin.

BRUSSELS, FEB. 25.

According to all appearance, the armiſtice will not hold good long. Different troops from Thionville, &c. are ordered to the Moſelle; and it is even ſaid, that the firſt of March is the day fixed for the rupture; the republican generals having received expreſs orders from the directory to act offenſively. A ſquadron of gun-boats have been built, and are ready to act with the army; and great numbers of troops paſs this place continually to join alſo; among the reſt, we have remarked the infernal legion coming from La Vendee.

WESEL, FEB. 29.

"Notwithſtanding the continuance of the two hoſtile powers, ſince the armiſtice, in making the moſt active preparations for another campaign, which is predicted to be infinitely more deciſive than any preceding one, there ſeems yet to be a hope of peace entertained among perſons who are informed of theſe tranſactions; and this hope, in ſome degree, begins to gain confirmation.

"The public will pardon us for not further explaining the foundations of this hope, and for not ſtating details reſpecting the negotiations which have been carried on, and are ſtill continued, in order to fulfil the wiſh of almoſt every man. Our hope at the ſame time is not deceived, and will even be realized, as ſoon as the two belligerent powers ſhall be convinced of their real intereſts, and obſerve the diſintereſted views and energy of the mediating monarchs, who have no other wiſh but to reſtore peace to Europe.

"It has been reported, that propoſals for the preliminary baſis for peace were made on the 14th of December laſt year; and others pretend to ſay, have been adopted. This ſeems the more probable from the adoption of the armiſtice by the belligerent powers ſo readily. As to the conditions, they are aſſerted to be the following:

"England is ready to reſtore almoſt all its conqueſts; and France will retain only a part of Auſtrian Flanders. Belgium will form an independent republic, under the ſuperintendance of an hereditary ſtadtholder, the Prince of Orange; and be allowed to eſtabliſh for themſelves ſuch a form of government as they think moſt advantageous, when the French troops ſhall evacuate their territories. Auſtria is to have a part of Bavaria; the elector of Bavaria ſhall, as an indemnification, enter into the poſſeſſion of the provinces of Juliers, Liege and Limburg."

COBLENTZ, FEB. 14.

Every preparation is making for the proſecution of the war, and the arrival of a general is all that is neceſſary for the recommencement of hoſtilities. General Kleber paſſes through the whole army to inſpect the condition of every thing. A French army of 25,000 men is entrenched at Kayſerſwerth, which has required a great ſupply of ſtraw. The trenches at Duſſeldorf are already complete. They require 13,000 men and 100 pieces of artillery for their defence. Thoſe at Neufs, and Keyſerſworth, likewiſe require each 100 pieces of artillery.

ITALY.

GENOA, FEB. 8.

There are at preſent at Toulon 16 ſhips of the line and 40 gun-boats, which are ready for ſea.

HOLLAND.

HAGUE, FEB. 29.

The marine of our republic, now in commiſſion, conſiſts of 22 ſhips of the line, 30 frigates, 16 brigs, and ſix gun-boats.

ENGLAND.

LONDON, FEBRUARY 27.

On Wedneſday morning, at day break, a ſquadron of four ſail of men of war, belonging to admiral Pringle's diviſion, of which the Glatton, captain Trollope, was one, fell in with the Dutch fleet, and was in ſome meaſure ſurrounded. The enemy's force conſiſted of ſix two decked ſhips, eight ſtout frigates, moſtly of 44 guns, and three ſmaller veſſels: and on deſcrying our diviſion formed the line. Our ſhips made ſail to get away, and the enemy ſhewed no diſpoſition to chaſe them. Soon after admiral Pringle, coming from Leith Roads in a ſingle frigate, likewiſe fell in with the Dutch fleet, and quickly joined the above ſquadron of Engliſh ſhips, which are all returned into Yarmouth Roads, together with the Eſpiegle.

Yeſterday morning captain Trollope arrived in town at the admiralty with this news, but in the evening returned again to Yarmouth.

The Dutch fleet, when laſt ſeen, was 40 leagues N. E. of Yarmouth, ſteering a courſe N. by E.

As ſoon as this news was known in town, orders were ſent off to admiral Duncan, who was at the Nore, and has 6 ſail of the line, including a Ruſſian ſhip under his command, to join admiral Pringle; and at the ſame time diſpatches were ſent to Portſmouth, ordering admiral Harvey to put to ſea with every poſſible diſpatch. Several officers who were in town were likewiſe ordered to join their reſpective ſhips without loſs of time.

There never was a greater alacrity ſhewn than on the preſent occaſion, to ſend out a fleet to meet the enemy. As many ſhips as were neceſſary for this ſervice were ready to put to ſea, and we have no doubt ere this have ſailed.

While admiral Duncan purſues the enemies in the North Seas, it is not unlikely that admiral Gardner may be ſtationed to watch them off Ireland; for we have reaſon to think, that there is pretty certain information of the Dutch going north about, for the purpoſe of either proceeding to the Cape of Good Hope, or to make ſome of the French ports. We anxiouſly wait for further information on this ſubject.

MARCH, 1.

By a letter from Vienna, we learn that a marriage was expected to to be ſolemnized between the daughter of Louis the XVI. and the archduke Charles. It was prevented, however, by a circumſtance quite unforeſeen; when the propoſal was made to the princeſs, ſhe replied, that however grateful ſhe might feel at the offer made to her, ſhe could not accept of it, becauſe her father had, prior to his death, diſpoſed of her hand—ſhe had promiſed to comply with his will, and would keep her engagement.

Our letter adds, that it is not known to whom ſhe thus ſtands engaged, unleſs it be to one of the ſons of count d'Artois; and that ſeveral perſons who have acceſs to the court ſay, that there has been a ſenſible coldneſs on the part of the Imperial family towards the princeſs.

EAST-INDIA HOUSE, MARCH 8.

Intelligence has been lately received overland, from Bombay, of the ſurrender of the following Dutch ſettlements to the Britiſh forces:

Malacca and its dependencies (when, not mentioned), Jaffapatam, on the iſland of Ceylon, on the 27th of September; and Cochin, on the Malabar coaſt, on the 10th of October.

Intelligence has likewiſe been received of the death of his highneſs the Nabob of the Carnatic, on the 13th of October; and also of the Peshwa, or first minister of the Mahratta government, on the 27th of that month.

MARCH 9.

Several articles which the Hamburgh mail, arrived this morning, brings, revive the hopes of effective negociation; but upon the information and authority of such articles, which so often prove fallacious and contradictory, we forbear to speculate. We have the highest and most unquestionable authority in this country, for saying, that things are in train for negociation, if the French are sincere in their wishes for peace, and we hope to state the effect of such negociations upon better authority than the vague rumors, as they generally prove to be, of foreign journals.

The English Mediterranean fleet arrived at Leghorn before the 11th ult. from St. Florenzo. It was composed of nine ships of the line and two frigates, under the command of Sir John Jervis.

Such is the wonderful rapidity with which intelligence is conveyed by the Telegraph, that between the last word of a message lately sent to Deal, and the first word of the answer received at the admiralty, an interval of only three minutes and an half elapsed.

Many of the signs on the telegraph are made to signify whole words, such as Admiral, Captain, Squadron, Fleet, Convoy, Ships of different descriptions, Russian, Dutch, the points of the compass, &c. by which means the trouble of orthography is saved, and messages are more expeditiously conveyed. There are some simple signs also, which signify the names of different ports, and the term Fog, Word ended, and message ended.

The most important news from Paris is—that the executive directory has granted a very mild sentence to the duke de Choiseul, the baron de Montmorency, and other emigrants, who were unfortunately wrecked some time since on the French coast. The sentence is—qu'ils seront deportes—or in other words, that they shall be sent out of the territories of the republic. This now is private, and not mentioned in any of the Paris journals yet received in this country.

PHILADELPHIA, APRIL 21.

This day arrived the ship Adriana, captain Fitzpatrick, from London, by which the editor has been favoured with London papers to the 12th of March, from which the following extract are taken:

LONDON, MARCH 10.

A convention of the German empire is spoken of, to be holden at Manheim. Baron de Hohenthal is named on the part of the elector of Saxony, and count de Salm on the part of the elector of Bavaria.

At Manheim the works are carried on without intermission which are to cover that place from all attack. The French on their side are doing the same. They are not only extending and perfecting the lines of Queich, but they have begun to establish behind these, in different points, new entrenchments, principally in the environs of Deux Ponts.

MARCH 12.

Sir Robert Liston took leave of his Majesty previous to his departure for America, to which republic he is appointed minister from this country.

Some persons in the confidence of administration here, within these few days, hinted in pretty broad terms, that a negociation is at this time actually in a promising train.

The French republic having been formally acknowledged by Spain, Prussia, Sweden, Denmark, Switzerland, Turkey, Tuscany, and America, has now ministers to each of those powers.

BALTIMORE, APRIL 25.

Arrived the ship Adriana, capt. Philomon Dawson, in 38 days from Liverpool. By the Adriana we have been favored with London papers to the 15th, and Liverpool papers to the 17th March, five days later than what was received by the Adriana at Philadelphia—they contain very little of importance more than what was brought by the last mentioned vessel, we have however extracted the following articles from them.

VIENNA, FEBRUARY 25.

The departure of his Royal highness Archduke Charles to the army of the Lower Rhine, of which he is to be the commander in chief, is fixed for the 10th of the ensuing month. His equipage, consisting of 62 persons and 100 horses, besides these of the train and remount, set out from this capital on the 17th instant. Almost immediately after the arrival of his Royal Highness at his head quarters, the campaign: it will continue to be carried on offensively; and, according to every appearance, will be still more vigorous and sanguinary than the preceding ones, it being resolved on, as we are told, that it shall be decisive. To carry the strength of our forces to its highest possible degree, the number of troops in the different cantonments is reduced to a degree that has been unexampled in any former war. In these cantonments, even in those of the frontiers, but one division, intended for the exercise of the new recruits, will be left. In short, all the soldiery are to march either for the Rhine or for Italy; and the place of the battallions which are sent out will be filled up by the recruits. On the 17th 18th, and 19th instant, several battalions of Croats, Ogulins, and of the corps entitled the Troops of St. George, defiled by this city on their route to Italy; at the same time that the Sclavonian regiments, and those from the frontiers of Wallachia, proceeded towards the Rhine. Large bodies of troops from Bohemia and Moravia set out at the same time for the same destination; and, according to very recent advices, a train of artillery of 120 guns has been dispatched from Prague for the Rhine. In our military department the greatest activity at present prevails; the recruits, by which the old corps are to be replaced, will amount to 90,000 men, of which number Bohemia alone will supply 30,000. We are as yet entirely ignorant of the nature of the plan of operations which is to be pursued on the Rhine: it is said to be entirely new.—It appears, however, to have been decided on, that notwithstanding his Royal Highness the Archduke is to have the chief command of the army employed on the Rhine, that army will still be in two divisions, and that General Count Wurmser will command the one at the head of which he now is.

FEBRUARY 27.

Preparations for a new campaign are carrying on with increased activity every day in the military chancelry, and in the arsenals, the clerks and workmen are busy night and day, Sundays not excepted. Every day troops for the armies on the Rhine and in Italy are marching thro' this city; and the Emperor particularly intends to augment his armies with Cavalry, for which purpose Commissaries have been sent into all the provinces, notwithstanding many thousands have been already imported from abroad, and are coming in daily. The army of Italy alone is to be augmented with 10,000 cavalry.

Official letters announce that the court of Turin is not engaged in any negociation with the French for the purpose of obtaining a separate peace. The King of Sardinia has sent General Latour to our court, only to concert the plan of operations for the campaign. A courier has also arrived from London, whose dispatches relate to the continuance of the war; England promises to employ her whole strength in carrying it on.

LONDON, MARCH 15.

The Hamburgh Mail which became due yesterday, arrived in town this morning. The accounts from Germany state, in the most decisive terms, that the Emperor is making every possible exertion for carrying on the war with vigor, as well in Italy as on the Rhine.—Troops are daily marching to their destined stations, and the reinforcements received by the imperial armies are most formidable, as well from their numbers as from their discipline and mode of equipment. It is the grand object of the emperor to increase, in more than a proportionate degree the number of cavalry in which the enemy is more particularly deficient, and which are so essentially necessary to the success of that plan of offensive operation which has certainly been adopted. The archduke, who is to have the chief command of the army on the Rhine was to leave Vienna on the 10th inst. and it was expected that the campaign would be opened as soon after his arrival as circumstances would admit of. No less than 90,000 recruits, of which Bohemia alone is to supply one third are to be immediately raised, in order to replace the veteran troops which marched to the scene of action.

Meanwhile the French, on their side, are making all the exertions in their power to maintain, at least if not to extend, their conquests. All the requisition men have been sent to the armies and the most formidable entrenchments have been thrown up in the different posts which they still occupy in the vicinity of the Rhine.

In short, it is the firm determination of either party to render the ensuing campaign completely decisive; and one more important in its consequences Europe has never yet witnessed.

KING OF POLAND.

PARTICULARS OF THE ABDICATION OF THE THRONE OF POLAND BY STANISLAUS.

On the Day of St. Catherine, Repnin went to the King, and presented to him several papers which had been sent to him from Petersburgh, as the act of his Abdication, a relinquishment of his pretensions to the Throne, and, which Stanislaus signed without resistance, in the morning, and which Repnin immediately published through the city—After this, the King of Poland published, at dinner, his attachment to his former mistress, Gradbowaka, declared that he had espoused her seven years ago; and legitimated all the Children which he had by her, and settled on them the wrecks of his fortune. Then, his eyes streaming with tears, he took leave, with a constancy truly royal, of the faithful servants of his former state, which produced a truly affecting scene. This was ended by a Ball, at which Repnin, increasing his pride, himself presented to the company, this King dethroned by the stroke of a pen. Such was the end of the reign of Stanislaus, than whom a man of brighter virtue and a more enlightened mind never filled a Throne.

FROM A LONDON PAPER.

RIGHTS OF MAN.

Notwithstanding all that has been said about the Rights of Man, of late years there are many rights which belong to us, and which we have never yet seen enumerated—as for example—We have the rights of killing the fowls of the air if we are worth 100l. a year, and pay three guineas for a licence.

We have the right of being officers in the army if we purchase commissions.

We have the right of wearing hair powder, if we pay for a licence.

We have a right of eating, if we have any thing to eat.

We have the right of keeping public gaming tables, if we are persons of quality.

We have the right of going to law, if we have money.

We have the right of speaking—in favour of the minister and his measures.

We have the right of thinking upon all political subjects: and

We have the right of holding our tongues.

The following is literally copied from an Irish paper:

"TO HERCULES LANGRISH, Esq.—Sir, you said in the House of Commons, that in support of the present war, a man should part with his last guinea to secure the rest. *I have followed your advice. FROM A CORRESPONDENT.

The number of addresses presented to Congress, expressing a desire to have the British Treaty carried into effect, and requesting the House to make the necessary appropriations for that purpose, fully evinces that we still possess a sufficiency of republican honour to make good the engagements of our worthy Executive. It is sincerely hoped they may have a proper effect upon those to whom they are addressed; and that, whatever opinion they may entertain as to the constitutionality of the treaty, they will not suffer the Ministry of Great Britain to use the following expression, so applicable to themselves on many occasions, to the government of America with justice:

"Men live and prosper but in mutual Trust;
"The confidence of one another's Truth,
"Which thou hast violated."

On Friday the 22d inst a very numerous meeting of the Inhabitants of the City of Washington and Prince George's County was held at the Great Hotel, when Notley Young Esq having been unanimously voted to the chair, and William Cranch, Esq. requested to act as secretary, the business was introduced by the communication of a circular Letter from the Committee of Merchants and Traders of Philadelphia; the contents of which being approved, and a memorial to the House of Representatives having been unanimously, resolved on the Rev. Geo Ralph, General Davison, and Rob't Brent, Esq. were appointed a committee to frame and bring in the same—Those gentlemen withdrew, and. having returned. presented the following Memorial, which was twice read, and, unanimously, agreed to:

To the Honourable the House of Representatives of the United States.

The memorial of the Subscribers, Inhabitants of the City of Washington and Prince George's county,

Respectfully sheweth,

That having waited with anxious expectation, to see the necessary arrangements adopted by your house for carrying into effect the treaty mutually ratified by the United States and Great Britain, and observing with great regret, that this important business is still protracted, they are seriously alarmed for the interest, reputation and tranquility of confederated America.

Your Memorialists conceive that it is the unalienable right and privilege of freemen, at all times, to express their sentiments to their Representatives in Congress, and they feel particularly called upon to do so at this important crisis, because the treaty having been solemnly ratified, it involves the faith of an infant and rising empire, the interests of commerce, and the rights of humanity.

Impressed by these considerations, your Memorialists request this house to pursue such measures as, alone, can preserve general confidence and public tranquility: they call upon and implore you to contemplate the extensive interests of the Union; and they, with the greatest respect for the Representatives of a free people, recommend an immediate adoption of such arrangements as are contemplated in the treaty between the United States and Great Britain, as the only just, politic, and honorable means to preserve the public faith, and, eventually, to secure the prosperity of this country.

The memorial was immediately signed by several hundred of citizens present, and the greatest decorum and harmony prevailed.—It will be left at different houses in various parts of the City and Country until Tuesday next, for the convenience of those who wish to affix their names. (Washington Advertiser.)

"I have already trembled at the rash and unwarrantable decision which obtained in the House of Representatives— the precipice on which we stand appears tremendious in my view—I start with horror from a mere glance of that deph of misery into which we may be precipitated, and I find my chief consolation in turning my affrighted gaze to Him who only can protect us from that deluging tempest which with impending darkness seems to envelope our political Horizon—Yet all things may end well, and the August Representatives of this nation may be yet called to reap the harvest of that Fame with which he hath already been so liberally and so deservedly apportioned."

Recent Instance of American Magnanimity and British Gratitude.

Highly Honourable to both Nations.

When Captain Hodge arrived in London, after having exerted himself with so much humanity in saving the crew of the Aurora Transport, he received a polite invitation from Mr. Dundas, who in the presence of several of the other ministers, and in behalf of the British Government, thanked him in the warmest terms for his generous conduct on that occasion, and requested him to accept some token of the national gratitude, and esteem which he so justly merited. An elegant gold box, containing a note for 500 guineas, has accordingly been entrusted to the care of Capt. Fitzpatrick, of the Adriana, to be presented to him, on the lid of which the following inscription is engraved:

On the 2d. of Feb. 1796,
The Crew of the British Transport
AURORA,
Together with 9 German Officers, 130 Privates, 73 Women and Children,
Were saved when on the point of sinking, by the humane and generous exertions of CAPTAIN JOHN HODGE,
of the American ship
SEDGELY.

The merchants of Glasgow have directed a piece of plate to be engraved and presented to him, in testimony of the high sense they entertained of his generous and disinterested exertions;—and we learn that many of the other commercial cities of Great Britain are following this laudable example.

CONGRESS.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

April 20.

M. Hartley presented a memorial in favour of the Treaty, signed by 600 merchants and traders, also one of the same nature from 800 citizens.

Mr. Swanwick then presented a petition against the treaty signed by 1500 citizens of Philadelphia and its vicinity.

They were all referred to the committee of the whole on the state of the union.

April 21.

Mr. Muhlenberg presented a petition from 800 inhabitants of the city of Philadelphia, of the same kind with that presented by Mr. Swanwick yesterday, against the British treaty.

Mr. Isaac Smith also presented a petition from 163 inhabitants of Trenton, in favour of the British treaty; and

Mr. Hartley presented a petition from 109 merchants and others of the city of Philadelphia, and another signed by 183 persons, inhabitants of the said city, in favour of the British treaty.

The above petitions were referred to the committee of the whole on the state of the union.

April 22.

Mr. W. Smith informed the House, that the committee appointed to wait upon the Directors of the Bank of the United States, to enquire whether it would be convenient for them to continue the money which they had advanced to government in anticipation of the revenue, on loan as usual, had directed him to move that the committee of the whole might be discharged from a farther consideration of the bill before it, providing in part for the payment of the debt due to the Bank of the United States in order that it might be re-committed to the committee of ways and means, to undergo some alterations, in consequence of the result of their enquiries. The committee of the whole was discharged and the bill re-committed.

The bill providing appropriations for defraying the expences of carrying into effect the treaty lately concluded with the Dey and Regency of Algiers: and the bill for making provision for the Revenue Cutters, were read a third time and passed. The blank in the former bill for the yearly allowance to be paid to Algiers. was filled up with 24,000 dollars.

Mr. Hartley presented petitions from 650 citizens of York county, from 104 merchants of Philadelphia, from 195 other inhabitants of that city, and from 68 Pennsylvanians, in favor of the British Treaty.

Mr. Isaac Smith presented a petition of the same tenor from 172 inhabitants of New-Brunswick.

Mr. Gallatin presented a similar one from 49 inhabitants of the western counties.

Mr. Kittera also presented a petition of a like kind from 260 inhabitants of Newcastle county.

Mr. Swanwick presented a petition from 300 inhabitants of Philadelphia against the British treaty.

The House resolved itself into a committee of the whole on the state of the union; when the resolution for carrying into effect the British treaty being under consideration, Mr. Coit and Mr. Isaac Smith spoke in favour of the treaty; and Mr. S. Smith spoke on the subject, generally against the treaty; but believing it to have been constitutionally formed, and finding that his constituents were almost wholly in favour of it, he declared his intention of giving his vote for carrying it into execution. The committee rose and had leave to sit again. Adjourned till Monday.

SONNET.

TO AN INFANT AT THE BREAST.

HEAR, lovely Babe! equal in birth to all,
While thus thou drain'st my breast my blood runs chill;
I ask, if thou some future day must fall,
And Despots send thee to be kill'd or kill?

For thousands daily drop, who each, like thee,
Once claim'd a mother's ever anxious Love;
Hung on her bosom, sported on her knee,
And valued were—a world of Kings above.

Tormenting thought!—Oh! ere thou grow'st mature,
May all wars cease; or Tyrants, if there be,
Fight their own battles; and each man secure,
By equal laws and equal rights, be free.

So may no Mother's care be thrown away,
Or ONE hurl MILLIONS from the face of day.
